

Our ideas are as follows:

1. Mathematical theory of climate and its application to the investigation of the stability of Arctic Oscillations and estimation of the role of the Arctic for the Global Climate Change.
2. Numerical modeling of the coupled sea ice - deep ocean circulation and data assimilation for ice and water properties reconstruction.
3. The role of the Arctic Ocean in climate variability.

Thank you.

Best regards,

Dr. Nikolai Yakovlev

<mailto:iakovlev@inm.ras.ru>

Institute of Numerical Mathematics, RAS,

Moscow, Russia.